Ration Board Tells How To Apply For Renewal Of Gas Allowances

Personal Interviews Will Be Necessary Only In Exceptional Cases

Instructions for the renewal of current supplementary gasoline rations for holders of "B" and "C" books which expire February 28, were issued yesterday by Ralph E. Connor, secretary of the district War Price and Rationing Board in Monrovia.

Application blanks will be mailed to holders of "B" and "C" books within the next few days, Connor said. When these forms are received they must be carefully and completely filled out at once and returned to the ration board which issued your ration card along with your tire inspection certificate or record. However, it is not necessary to have tires inspected before sending in this application unless it is mailed after February 28. It will be noted that on the new form speedometer reading at the time of filing your application must be given.

If any change is made in the mileage applied for the applicant must file a new supplemental application obtained from the local distribution center at the city hall or the district rationing board in Monrovia.

The district board will not interview applicants during the renewal period, but will devote its full time to passing upon applications and granting renewals by mail. Supplemental books will be mailed as fast as the board can review and act on them.

Only in special cases will applicants be asked to appear before the board.

In applying for renewal of B and C gas rations you should do these things:

1—Return ration books you now hold and any unused coupons in each book; there will be no penalty for coupons not used.

2—Estimate number of miles you drive each month, to and from work and in course of work.

3—Give changes, if any, from your present rations in occupational miles driven, number of cars in car-sharing group and the number of persons in the ride-sharing group.

Ration boards are insisting that holders of supplemental mileage rationing books must use the share-the-ride-plan to obtain supplemental rations, exchange rides with other drivers or carry passengers in their own cars.

Ration boards have been instructed to inquire carefully into the use made of B and C gas allowances and to reduce allowances or cancel them where improper use has been made of them.

MONTHLY PRACTICE DRILLS OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE CORPS WILL BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

Hereafter there will be one instead of two monthly drills by the local Civilian Defense Corps, it was announced yesterday. The fourth Monday of each month was selected as the time and the first drill under the new arrangement is scheduled for next Monday evening. Dr. W. B. Heagerty, chief of the emergency medical unit of the Civilian Defense Council, made the announcement in the following statement:

"The Control Board has in the past, tried to have two field exercises for practice, involving all services, each month, but because of different interferences these practices have become somewhat irregular, so that there was much difficulty with the personnel being unable to set aside certain days each month.

"To prevent confusion and help those who have to plan ahead for duty on these nights, the Control Board at its last meet-

Landlords Warned To Report Changes In Tenancies

Warning was issued this week that owners of rental properties where there has been a change in tenants since the registration of landlords several months ago, will be subject to a fine of $5,000 for failure to make prompt report of new tenancies to the Rent Control Board. In Sierra Madre these reports may be filed with the local rent control committee at the city hall. This committee, of which Mrs. Carlin G. Smith is chairman, is in session from 2 until 5 each Wednesday. Other members are John C. Loomis, Joe Russell and Mrs. Harry Caskey.

PTA Will Sponsor A Leather Drive During March

Any and every leather article—except shoes, will be included in the collection. In the long list of wanted items are discarded belts, wallets and gloves. Residents having the desired materials are asked to send them to the grammar school by one of the pupils, or take them in person. The campaign begins March 28.

An ambulance was called and he was taken to St. Luke's Hospital for emergency treatment.

TWO CITY OFFICIALS TURN FOOD PRODUCERS TO HELP RELIEVE AN ACUTE SITUATION

Believing that every successful Victory garden, small or large, hutch not only helps to free farm labor and transportation for other vital needs but assures a family a plentiful supply of garden fresh vitamin-rich vegetables at a time when prices will be highest, two Sierra Madre city officials, Bruce McGill, member of the city council and Waverly E. Pratt, city clerk, have gone wholeheartedly into the business of food production.

Pratt puts in every minute of his spare time in the family orchard and chicken farm at his home on North Grove st. Just now he has a thousand chickens ranging in age from one-day old to five and seven months. These

Death Comes Suddenly To Mrs A R Snell

Resident Here For 26 Years Was Active In Club And Church Affairs

Mrs. Annie Rose Snell, 75, died at her home, 419 East Highland ave., Sunday of a heart attack. She was born in Brandon, Ohio, came to California 55 years ago and had lived in Sierra Madre for 26 years.

She was a long time active member of the Congregational Church, a member of the Daughters of the British Empire and a former vice-president of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Catherine Snell Tuttle and Mrs. Margaret Keys of Sierra Madre, and Lieut. Christine Snell, a United States Army nurse stationed at Camp Callan; three sisters, Mrs. Grace Williams and Mrs. Myrtle Oakford of Pasadena and Mrs. Hazel Spencer of Long Beach. She also leaves three grandchildren, Donald and Teresa Keys and Hubert Tuttle of this city.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 p.m. at the Congregational Church, Monday, Feb. 15, Rev. Frederic Groetsma officiating. Interment was private.

are scientifically housed and fed. They are placed in elevated brooders with automatic water system, thermostatically controlled to maintain an even temperature. This system is designed to maintain a white light 14 hours out of 24 hours. The chickens think its daytime and continue to eat throughout the daylight hours, stimulating growth and increasing egg production. This method produces a chicken with sweeter and more tender meat, chicken experts believe.

Mr. Pratt also has an orchard containing five varieties of peaches, three varieties of apricots, and plums; also oranges, lemons, walnuts, avocados, loquats and a vegetable garden of lettuce, radishes, potatoes, carrots and chives.

Bruce McGill has at his home at 560 West Grand View av., two brooders operating and three under construction. He has 75 chickens of various ages that are fed a scientifically balanced mash that includes vitamins and minerals to replace yard scratching. They are also placed in elevated houses with thermostatic heat control.

And to complete Mr. McGill's "farm" there are seven senior does, eleven junior does, twenty baby rabbits, one buck and a low pure bred Guernsey cow. The Guernsey gives 11 quarts of milk a day—adequate milk, cheese, cream and butter for family and friends.

Three pounds of cheese are obtained from five quarts of skim milk, and nearly a pound of butter from one quart of cream. Having no churn, butter is made in a modern electric mixer.

So, with vegetables from his victory garden, home-made bread, and jelly, rabbits, chickens, fresh milk, cream, butter and cheese, Mr. McGill expects to have an adequate food supply for the duration, come what will.

They are living in the Yard. In a recent letter to a friend here, Mrs. Bumpus wrote: "Needless to say the Sierra Madre News is more welcome than ever, and more interesting. Four silk streamers are pinned to the 19th's flag. Each denote a phase of the unit's long, hard fight against Japan from the very day of war.

Capt. Neutzel came home from the Southwest Pacific to spend the holidays with his family and was given his assignment as an instructor when he reported back for duty. He is the son of Mrs. Charles W. Collins and a nephew of Mrs. Woodson F. Jones.

Spake, commanding officer of the California group. Lt. Reitherman attended Pasadena Junior College and the Chovinard School of Art.

To Designate Homes Of Block Wardens By Window Signs

Sierra Madre's Parent-Teacher Association will pay half the expense of furnishing signs to be placed in the windows of homes of women serving as block mothers who will be responsible for the care of children during air raid alarms. A resolution calling for this expenditure was adopted at the recent executive committee meeting. Another resolution expressed appreciation to Mrs. W. B. Dedrick for preparation of the service banner recently presented the Kiwanis Club in recognition of the fact that its full membership is identified with some unit of the civilian defense corps.

More Trains On Sierra Madre Line

Four New Runs To And From L.A. Provided By Schedule Effective Sunday

Better get a new Pacific Electric timetable if you are a commuter or even an occasional rider on P.E. trains. A new schedule that becomes effective on the Sierra Madre and Glendora lines Sunday morning adds four new trains to and from Sierra Madre daily and two on Sunday, besides moving up the starting time of about every run on the present schedule.

Inbound during the morning peak hours and outbound during the evening rush hours, an approximately 15-minute headway will be maintained. The basic schedule throughout the day will be continued on an hourly headway.

In order to provide transportation for persons employed in the downtown area getting off duty at midnight or shortly before, a new trip will be operated from Los Angeles at 12:15 a.m., one hour later than the present last departure, with arrival in Sierra Madre scheduled for 1:08 a.m. A corresponding late train will leave here at 12:15 a.m., instead of 11:27 p.m.

This schedule change and service improvement is being made in connection with revision of the Los Angeles-Monrovia-Glendora Line schedule which is likewise being augmented by several additional trips daily.

Time of departure of all trains from Sierra Madre and Los Angeles is shown in an advertisement of the Pacific Electric Railway elsewhere in the NEWS.

Income Tax Returns May Now Be Filed At Pasadena Office

Sierra Madreans may now file their Federal income tax returns and attend to any matters in connection with the return at an office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Pasadena. Opened Monday in the old headquarters of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce at 15 North Garfield avenue, with C. F. Gilbert, veteran employee of the Los Angeles office, in charge, it is authorized to handle any and all business that could be transacted in the general offices in the Los Angeles Federal building, or even in Washington.

This office was established to take care of the needs of a wide area, including the San Gabriel and Puente valleys. The staff of seven field deputies heretofore located in the Pasadena district will be increased to 13 and in addition will have a cashier and a clerk to assist Division Chief Gilbert.

Any resident of this district may now pay his taxes in cash as well as by check at the Pasadena office and may secure rulings, opinions, and decisions on all tax matters directly from Pasadena.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Enid Hart of San Marino; two sons, Staff Sergeant John L. Hart of the U.S. Army, and Frank Hart; a daughter, Enid Hart, and a brother, John W. Hart of San Marino.

Instructions Given For First Steps In Point System To Begin March 1

Retail sale of approximately 200 food items to be rationed under the new point system beginning March 1 will be discontinued for one week at the close of business Saturday evening. Registration for War Ration Book No. 2 will begin at the grammar school Monday morning and continue until Saturday night. The registration originally planned to continue on Sunday, February 28, has been cancelled. The registration hours Monday through Friday will be from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m.

In the week between February 21 and March 1, retailers will stock their shelves with the rationed food items and the new ration books will be issued.

One member of a family may register for all of its members and each member, including babies, will be entitled to receive a ration book. The baby's book will permit the purchase of the same amount of food as an adult. The No. 2 book will soon be used for the rationing of meat and for other commodities when shortages become acute.

At the time of registration consumers must file a declaration form, setting forth the amount of rationed foods they have on hand. Each member of a family will be allowed five cans or bottles of the rationed foods without loss of coupons from their new books. Coupon will be detached at the time of issuance for each can or bottle in excess of five per person. These declaration forms must be filled out before the consumer appears for registration. Forms may be secured from retail grocer or at the school house.

In general War Ration Book No. 2 cannot be obtained unless the person presents War Ration Book No. 1 when registering. A person who has neglected to obtain War Ration Book No. 1 cannot get it during the regular registration period but must wait until a later date, with the exception of the following cases:

1—Where a person has been discharged from any branch of the armed forces within the last 30 days.

2—Where a baby has been born within the last 30 days.

3—Where a person has been out of the United States and who has never been registered before.

4—Where a person has left an organized mess within the last 30 days, such as the penal institutions, or branch of the armed forces.

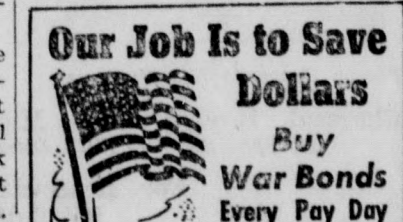

Members of branches of the armed forces who are home on furloughs or leaves for a period of seven consecutive days or longer will be granted special certificates of 12 points for each seven days they are at home.

Industrial users can register by mail or at the district ration board headquarters in Monrovia between April 1 and 10 and will have to fill out applications in triplicate. An industrial user is any place using processed foods, to put into something which is not processed, such as a baker, delicatessen, market, or candy-maker.

Institutional users must make application in person at the district ration headquarters in Monrovia between March 1 and 10. Institutional users are people who operate hotels, restaurants, hospitals or rooming houses.

Institutional users will register for new coffee allotments between March 1 and 19 or at the same time they register for their point rationing. If they run short of sugar or coffee they can apply from now until Feb. 27 for a loan which will be deducted from their March and April allotments.

The amount of sugar loan will be one-fourth the amount of January-February allotment and coffee loan will be equal to one-half the February allotment.

Men Being Trained At Santa Anita Take Greatest Chances In Battle, Says Chief Of Army's Ordnance Branch

Men in the Ordnance branch of the Army, for which the soldiers at Camp Santa Anita are being trained, take more chances in battle than other fighting men, Brig. Gen. Julian Hatcher, chief of the Ordnance division announced during his recent visit here to inspect CSA. At Bataan 15 per cent of the casualties were Ordnance men, though they comprised only five percent of the personnel.

Development of mechanized armies, Gen. Hatcher declared, has definitely increased the importance of the Ordnance soldier, who is first, a fighting man, and second, a service man who keeps the mechanized army going.

"Ordnance now has more men than the United States had overseas in the last war," he declared. "Where Ordnance spent four billion during World War I (four times the cost of government,) Ordnance now is spending forty billion. Out of every

The camp and hospital committee has worked in close cooperation with the Eilers Estate Hospital on West Sierra Madre blvd., and Lieut. S. R. Bazell, doctor in charge, extends his gratitude to Sierra Madreans for all that has

Men In Armed Force Allowed Time To File Income Return

Men and women in the armed forces in the United States serving in America must file their 1942 Federal income tax returns along with all civilians not later than March 15th, according to Nat Rogan, Collector of Internal Revenue. However, those in the armed forces serving abroad or on the high seas need not file returns until a period not to exceed 75 days after they return to this country.

No member of the armed forces in this country should take it for granted that he need not file a return merely because he is in uniform. All single men whose gross income in 1942 was $500 and all married men whose income as $1200 in 1942 must file returns.

In defining the term "gross income" special consideration has been given by Congress to military personnel who were below the rank of commissioned officers on December 31, 1942. Men and women who were single on that date may exclude $250 of their military pay; those who were married on that date may exclude $300 of their military pay from their total income. Thus, a buck private who was single and was not a commissioned officer on the last day of 1942 and who earned $600 in military pay would be required to report only $350 together with any other non-military income he might have had.

SHARPENED PUBLIC INTEREST IN GOVERNMENT TO FOLLOW PAYMENT OF INCOME TAX

on March 15, are starting to get a new conception of the colossal cost of this war.

In tens of thousands of families unless Congress substitutes some pay-as-you-earn plan for the present quarterly lump payment system before the tax is due, the money just won't be on hand to meet the bill on March 15—and as Uncle Sam don't accept notes or excuses, that will mean borrowing to pay the tax collector!

likely develop in groups which have not paid income taxes, or any considerable sum in direct taxes in the past—war workers, for example—but who are now earning big wages and must expect to pay accordingly.

One good result that may come of the big collective headache that all America will be suffering from on or about March 15 is a sharpened public interest in efforts which are scheduled to be made during the new Congress to cut out waste and bureaucratic extravagance in the normal functions of government and to guard against needless padding and graft in war contracts.

The terrific pace at which United States tax payments have climbed during recent years—and not just during the war period, but long before the national emergency—is attested by a recent survey conducted by Ralph Hendershot, financial editor of the New York World-Telegram, which shows that American taxes are far in excess of those in Britain, despite the fact that Great Britain has been battling for its very life for several years past. Reports Mr. Hendershot in The World-Telegram:

"Do Britons have a heavier tax burden than Americans? The answer is No. So much loose talk has been indulged in during the war. The American people, as they begin to compute their income tax payments which will be due past year by political leaders and others, including Secretary Morgenthau and Mrs. Roosevelt, that The World-Telegram undertook to get the facts.

"Total taxes to be collected in 1943 from people in the United States will approximate $317 per capita, according to leading authorities. This includes income taxes, both national and State, and all other taxes, hidden or otherwise.

"Total taxes to be collected from the people of Great Britain, using the same basis of computation, will amount to approximately $184 per capita.

"Income taxes alone will be somewhat higher in Britain in many instances, but that country depends to a much larger extent on such taxes than we do here. Ninety per cent of its total revenues will come from income taxes, as compared with but 72 per cent in the United States.

"It should be explained that it is impossible to make an entirely satisfactory comparison of their taxes and ours. This applies even in the case of income taxes. Their methods of application are different. Then, too, the purchasing power of the British currency is different, even when pounds are reduced to dollars at the current rate of exchange of 4.03 to the pound. The National City Bank estimates that the pound has a purchasing power equal to from $6 to $8. This means that the incomes of the British, after the payment of taxes, have a higher purchasing power than comparable incomes here, based on the $4. pound.

"The over-all tax policy of the British allows for greater incentive to achieve financial success, too. For instance, it places no ceilings over earnings; it applies no capital gains taxes, and no normal income taxes on income from investments. Moreover, an individual is allowed an income of 2,000 pounds or from $12,000 to $16,000 in purchasing power from dividends before paying any surtaxes. In other words, he is encouraged to own corporate securities and to risk his capital in the purchase and sale of such securities. Through our taxation methods we discourage such things."

Now that we are all getting ready to pay the highest taxes in the history of our country, that comparison certainly gives us food for thought. If the British people are paying lower taxes than we are, after all that Britain has gone through from incessant bombings and threatened invasion, perhaps we should insist that Congress take a good, hard look at our taxes—and where the money is going!

By CLEM WHITAKER

Women have earned their spurs in California's war industries and are not only heading toward complete equality with men in rates of pay, but may soon be working the same hours as men in an all-out contribution toward winning the Battle of Production!

That, briefly stated, is the story of the revolutionary, war-time change in the business and industrial status of women, revealed in legislation affecting "women's rights" which has been introduced at the current session of the State Legislature.

Women's legislation, at the 1943 session, has lost its "protective" characteristics—and many of the bills frankly ask that women be granted the right to work under the same conditions as men for the duration of the war, with no favors asked and no emphasis on sex.

Perhaps the most striking evidence that women have made good on their war jobs—and that their services are both desired and desperately needed—is found in a bill which would suspend the operation of the women's eight-hour-law during the war period and permit them to put in the same number of hours as men. Before Pearl Harbor that bill would have been bitterly opposed by women's organizations, but at this session it will probably have their whole-hearted support.

The manpower problem has come to the fore in many other bills and promises to become one of the dominant issues of the present legislative session. From present indications, virtually all of the manpower legislation—that affecting women, as well as men—is due for quick enactment when the Legislature reconvenes after the recess. This Legislature had donned its war boots and there's very little temporizing, when the war effort is involved.

The most serious situation, Treasury officials admit, will

INSPIRING WORDS

George Washington not only had indomitable courage and a genius for leadership, although these are two of the traits which contributed much to the survival of our Nation during the turbulent years of the Revolution and the equally critical years which followed it. He also had an almost uncanny ability to look into the future—and to envision the problems which would beset our Republic during the years to come. To this attribute of the Father of Our Country, more than any other, perhaps, we owe the fact that America lived and grew and finally became the most powerful Nation on the face of the globe.

It was George Washington, at Valley Forge, who uttered the prophetic words: "This liberty will look easy by and by, when nobody dies to get it." Washington knew, then, that there would be periods when we would value our liberty lightly—periods when we would accept as our due what others suffered and died to give us as a priceless heritage. But in this year of war, as we wage a bitter battle for liberty and survival as a free people, with our whole national life geared to the struggle, we know that liberty is not easy—for men, again, are dying for it throughout the civilized world. And Washington's birthday anniversary this year, as a consequence, has increased significance for all of us.

There were dark days after the treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor, when we were almost beaten by our inexcusable carelessness and complacency—days of bitter disillusionment, when we counted the cost of our neglect and national stupidity. Then we got a new birth of courage; then we began to fight. And today, we can read with new understanding and appreciation the immortal words of George Washington during the darkest hours at Valley Forge: "By all rules of the game we're beaten, and should surrender. But the spirit of earth moves over earth like flame and finds new home when the old's burned out. It stands over this my country in this dark year...stands like a pillar of fire to show us that men shall bear no burdens save of their own choosing, shall walk upright, doff their hats to none, and choose their gods. It's destined to win." We can echo those words of Washington this year—and be glad for his inspiring example.

ANOTHER WAY TO HELP

Another way you can help to win the war, according to Dr. Frank H. Lahey of the War Manpower Commission, is to guard your health with redoubled vigilance. Every day you are forced to stay away from work, due to illness, contributes to the problem of absenteeism and slows down production, says Dr. Lahey. And every time you call the doctor, needlessly, you put an added load on the Nation's limited supply of medical manpower.

The War Manpower Commission reports that approximately 10,000 more of the Nation's 180,000 physicians will be called into military service during the present year, which will leave about 80,000 doctors for civilians. This supply, if properly distributed and allocated, is adequate to care for the needs of the civil population, says Dr. Lahey, "if civilians will take every possible precaution to keep well." But with more than half the normal supply of doctors serving in the armed forces, it is

The.... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

IN an old book by the poet Yeats we came across the lovely line, "Our towns are copied fragments from our breast," and straightway thought of this our own town—how true it was of Sierra Madre. The line we've quoted was but one of three—evidently an excerpt from some longer poem, but whether by Yeats himself or his fellow-Irishman Arthur O'Shaughnessy we couldn't tell. Anyway, these the other two: "And all man's Babylons strive to impart—The grandeur of his Babylonian heart." And again we thought how truly Sierra Madre—this our own Bab-ilu, or "Gate of God"—strives to impart if not the grandeur at least the aspirations of our communal heart.

BAB-ILU, Babylon—she was not always called "the Great, Mother of Harlots," on the contrary, for maybe a thousand years or more she was the holy city of all Western Asia; known simply as "the Holy City," and by other gracious names: "Life of the Forest," "Seat of Life," "House of the Lofly Head"—any one of which names it seemed to us, might have served as an alternative name for Sierra Madre as well. Babylon itself at one time no larger than Sierra Madre now is; and there as here, no doubt, the town a mosaic of homes and gardens—each of these the fragment of a heart. For all we know—believing in reincarnation as we do—Sierra Madre may be, in fact, that same young Babylon come back to earth again. As though this had been foreshadowed in those other names for Babylon or Bab-ilu: "Life of the Forest," "House of the Lofly Head."

SIERRA MADRE also, to practically all of us, so we like to think, "the Seat of Life," "the Holy City," a "Gate of God." Somewhat as if, actually, our town did have virtues, of body and soul, transmitted to it by God Himself and a heavenly mother—this town's mother, the Sierra Madre. Certainly no child lies closer to its mother's heart than our town lies close to the heart of that Maternal Range. Once, long ago, we lived in Hollywood—when Hollywood's "Lookout Mountain" was still unspoiled—and ever so often as we might we'd climb to that high place and look away to these Sierra Madre Mountains—always with that awed feeling one may have when looking at the starry sky—as if you were in the presence of the Great Ones, the older sons and daughters of Creation—while you speculated on the wonders of their silent talk.

ALL this, then, breezing through our thought the other day—all of it: dead Babylon born again; and how indifferent the Spirit is to Time and Space; and how even Death itself fades like a passing illusion to those who touch it; all this and the image of our Sierra Madre Mountains also coming back, as seen from that hill in Hollywood—their old look as of Great Ones, the ancient Sons and Daughters of Creation, now the familiars of God, they that listen to what He says and repeat the miracle and splendor of it as they speak to each other—or to us—in the silence of the night; well, all of this adrift through our mind and heart as we stood there in Kersting Court, looking at what we saw in Rikeman's window.

YOU'VE probably seen it too, that group of photographs—that galaxy—of our local boys who've now left us for the War. Here also were fragments of Sierra Madre's breast—the grandeur of her heart. We could almost feel the old Mother Range herself, she who has given us her name, there behind us as she also looked in there at the faces of her sons. We could feel her cool and fragrant breath on the back of our neck—we could hear her whispering one of those ancient oracles of the night: "...The redeemed of the Lord shall return—and come with singing unto Zion..."

THUS keeping Lent, we told ourselves as we moved along. Sierra Madre keeping Lent by giving up her boys. These boys keeping Lent by giving up various treasures of their youth—perhaps that youth itself—giving up Life just when Life was vital that the public health be maintained at a high level. Sneeze at Hitler, if you must, is the purport of the government's warning. But do it figuratively, not literally. Keep the home front healthy!

at her most alluring. This is a Lent the whole world would keep, was keeping, or had already kept; preparatory to a Universal Gethsemane—to a Universal Crucifixion. We paused on our way to the Library and looked up at the Mountain—now shining partly in the sun, partly veiled in blue—never more beautiful, we thought—one of the Great Ones—Earth-Mother of the boys back there. "But also a Universal Easter," she seemed to smile. Like, she said, would also come. Like a breeze her whisper spread over all the homes and gardens of Sierra Madre: "His work is perfect."

What They Say --

Congressman Tom Rolph, S.F.—"Knowing the Japs from our contacts with them in the Pacific, we of the West know that now is the time to take the offensive."

Congressman Alfred J. Elliot, Bakersfield—"The OPA admits the meat shortage has hit California harder than any other State. It knows that men will walk off their jobs unless they have strength giving food. Yet, for a reason probably as silly as the whole food rationing program, the OPA has made no move to avert what may be disaster."

manpower and hinders both war and civilian production. The National Safety Council estimates that 500 million man-days were lost from the production lines in 1942 because of accidents, the equivalent of the time needed to build 20 battleships, or 9,000 heavy bombers, or 40,000 tanks. The council recorded 4,000,000 non-fatal mishaps to workers, while 46,500 were killed—19,500 on the job. Many of these accidents could have been avoided, safety experts contend.

The number of places selling alcoholic beverages in Southern California was reduced 416 during 1942, 83 licenses having been revoked. There were also 289 licenses canceled, the majority of these being held by Japanese prior to their removal from coastal areas. The balance of 44 licenses were surrendered by their holders for the duration of the war.

Rural traffic in 16 gasoline-rationed States dropped 41 per cent during November of 1942 compared with the same month in '41, statistical reports disclosed. Five hundred "electric eye" counters were utilized in making the survey. At the same time, the report showed that during the last 7½ months of 1942, traffic volume in the New York-New Jersey area dropped 27.6 per cent. The 12-month decrease was 18.3 in this sector. Meanwhile, the State of Massachusetts started 1943 with more than 100,000 cars off the highway due to Federal vehicular restrictions. The registrations in this State were recorded at 607,686, a decrease of 14 per cent. As the year opened in Michigan, there were 93,452 fewer cars registered, motor vehicle officials announced.

Every hour that ticked off during 1942 found three persons meeting death in traffic accidents. The 1942 traffic fatality aggregate of 28,000 was approximately 30 per cent lower than that of 1941.

Dealers report that the three articles most difficult to get in southern California are alarm clocks, garbage cans and small—two and three-cup—coffee pots. Millions of persons who have never had occasion to use alarm clocks before are on working shifts in war industries that require them to get up at unusual hours and they have so completely drained the market that WPA has consented to let down the bars and release enough scarce materials to permit the manufacture of 1,500,000 such time pieces. But they won't look anything like the pre-war clocks, plastics being

UNCENSORED

By LEONE BAXTER

There are two sides to the "blood plasma" story and both deserve public attention. The first is that of the freckle faced kid from Main st.

Except for that time last summer when he got pasted with a wild baseball bat on the school diamond, he never was seriously hurt in his life. This afternoon, half way across the world, he had his arm blown off by a bit of Jap shrapnel. Yes, his pitching arm. And his brave young face is very still, deathly white under his freckles.

If the bullet-dodging corpsman, hurrying to his aid under fire, or the field doctor a hundred yards or so behind the first surge of the savage fighting, is able to administer wonder-working blood plasma, the chance is good that the youngster's life will be saved.

Plasma will give him sufficient strength to withstand surgery. It will keep him alive while he is carried back to the base hospital. It is the first known specific for shock, the great wartime killer which, in the first world war, brought death to 40 per cent of wounded men whose physical injuries were not in themselves mortal.

If there is no supply of blood plasma at hand, the boy's story in all likelihood ends here.

The other side unfolds in the cities and towns here at home where three million pints of blood are critically, urgently needed, to be processed and sent to battle, and where only a few pints over a million so far have been supplied.

Millions of adult Americans, millions of fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers of service men, going about with prayers in their hearts for the safety of their boys, yet have failed to do the simple, easy and obvious thing to help safeguard their loved ones.

It is unfortunate that the business of donating a pint of blood is not a painful, unpleasant experience, for if it were the word would spread and everyone could have his chance to be something of a hero. But it doesn't take heroics. It requires only a visit to the local Red Cross, "a twist of a tourniquet and the prick of a needle"—little enough to pay for helping fan the breath of life back into the mutilated body of the boy from down the block, dying today on Guadalcanal.

"We need plasma from the Pacific to the Mediterranean," says Dr. Earl Taylor of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service. "We can never have enough of it." "You sure feel a lot safer wading into the Japs when you know that stuff's around," says Sergeant Richard H. Venn of the Marines on Guadalcanal. "We've seen it work miracles."

That plea should move millions to help work the miracle, getting their own blood into the war now, while it still can do some good.

High School Boys May Become Navy Pilot Officers Now

The Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board in Los Angeles announced this week that 17-year-old high school seniors may enlist in the Navy's pilot training program. Applicants who meet the age, physical and educational requirements will be enlisted as apprentice seamen in class V-5c and on completion of the training course be commissioned as ensigns.

Previously open only to men between the ages of 18 and 27 who were high school graduates, this new decree opens naval aviation training to the air-minded high school student. Those who apply must be enrolled in an accredited high school or accredited secondary school. In either case the applicant must have finished in the upper-half of his graduation class and must meet all the requirements prescribed for naval aviation cadets.

If all requirements are met to the satisfaction of the Cadet

Selection Board, the Navy will spend $30,000 to train him to be a pilot-officer and fly fighters, torpedo-bombers and patrol planes. Applications must be made directly to the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, 306 W. Thirteenth st., Los Angeles.

GAS makes his shells and weapons

"That's why I'll be glad to cooperate if we're ever called upon to use less heating gas during an emergency this winter."

Yes, you know that natural gas has a rush job to do for Uncle Sam—not only in heat-treating shells, but in making ships, planes and tanks. And you know that war industry has first call—that there may come a time this winter, during a severe cold spell, for example, when you may be asked to use less gas for household heating. You're ready for such a day, all set to cooperate the minute you may be told of an emergency. That's pulling together—and that's winning!

WHY THERE MAY BE A WARTIME FUEL-GAS EMERGENCY

This winter the reserve supply of natural gas for Southern California, and our facilities for delivering it are the greatest known in history. So you may wonder why, if the supply is abundant, even a temporary fuel-gas emergency could ever occur. Here are the reasons:

1. Gas is doing a double-duty WARTIME job—with a network of pipelines designed for PEACETIME!
2. War Industry's demand for natural gas to speed the production of scores of war essentials has first call.
3. Wartime residential requirements have been greatly stepped up—along with the needs of new military establishments.
4. And most important—steel cannot be obtained to expand the present peacetime network of pipelines—because it is more vitally needed on other fronts.

Under these wartime conditions, certain situations could occur this winter—such as extremes of weather—when the peacetime system of pipelines might not be equal to the task. Your cooperation in such a temporary emergency will be a war service of vital importance.

Army Life Changes "Bill" Burr So That Friends Scarcely Knew Him When He Dropped Out Of The Sky

"Bill" Burr, former manager of the Edison office here and Kiwanis Club president, is living proof of the fact that Uncle Sam not only sets a good table but takes excellent care of his nephews in the Army camps.

Hale and hearty, his skin bronzed by life in the open in th emountains of Pennsylvania and Virginia and so much heavier than when he joined the Red Cross welfare field staff with the Army that some of his many friends here scarcely recognized him on his arrival, "Bill" dropped out of the sky on Friday to visit his family and as many of his friends as he would meet during his ten-day leave from the Army camp at Indiantown, Penna. He has been stationed there for several weeks, having lately been transferred from Camp Pickett, Virginia. During his stay of several months at the latter place he was promoted to be a field welfare director and holds the same position in the Pennsylvania camp.

The thermometer showed the temperature to be eight below zero and there were three feet of snow on the ground when he boarded a plane at the Pennsylvania camp. He found summery weather here in Sierra Madre, the mercury registering 84 degrees.

Though not a member of the armed forces "Bill" trains with the soldiers back east as he did when he was assigned to the desert camps here at Indio and Needles. He gets a big kick out of Army life and says what it has done in the way of building up his health it is doing for practically every man he has seen in all the camps with which he has been connected. He left for Indiantown Monday.

YANKS ARRIVE IN FIJI ISLANDS—When a contingent of American troops recently landed at the Fiji Islands in the Southwest Pacific they were greeted by friendly natives instead of the cannibals the boys had read about in their school books. Pictures of landing scenes by the U. S. Signal Corps disclose the touch of civilization among the one-time eaters of "long pig." Left, Pfc. Benjamin H. Burton with good reason admires the abundance of crisp hair on this Fijian's head. Some natives bleach their hair with lime and go in for elaborate headdresses. Right, Sgt. Charles Auski, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., checks supplies loaded on a train on an island railroad.

Home Gardeners Excited About Trash Pickups Due To Error In Announcing City's Wartime Regulation

Owing to one of those slips that just will get by a times a notice appeared in these columns last week to the effect that the amount of garden refuse to be put out by a resident for removal by the city would be strictly limited, hereafter, to the legal quota of "two cubic feet" per month; when, of course, the amount should have been stated as "two cubic yards." The error seems to have caused considerable perturbation—so a Trusted Friend informs us—among local gardeners who'd never given the matter a thought before. For the notice went on to state, this time correctly, that those who violated the ordinance establishing the monthly limit would not only be subject from now on to a fine but also would be under the necessity of having the litter removed at their own expense.

Incidentally, our Trusted Friend, who is not only a gardener himself but has had long years of legal experience, expressed the opinion that the local ordinance regulating this trash-collection was not only fair but generous. Which, he told us, couldn't be said of all its beneficiaries.

"You'll see two places side by side," he explained, "practically identical so far as care and attractiveness are concerned; and yet, when the day for trash-collection comes around you'll see enough litter piled up in front of one to fill four trucks while in front of the other there'll be only what the law allows, but the owners of these places each paying the same amount of taxes. That's not fair, is it?—to anyone, especially those trying to run the city."

Then, as to this matter of Sierra Madre's local government, our friend said something so different from the things you sometimes hear it seems to us worth passing on. Said he: "In the past ten years I've had a lot of dealings with the city hall, and I've always found everyone connected with it quick and willing to oblige, eager to co-operate, no matter who the citizen happened to be, and in general making a pretty good job of it too—that is, of making Sierra Madre a good place to live in."

Which sort of cheered us up, encouraging us also to drop in at the city hall, there to ask how things were going. And lucky enough to find Joe Swanston, who now superintends just about everything in this town's physical upkeep. Have you noticed how clean the streets are? "But that's because we've had to ask even the firemen to help us," Joe said: "what with the War we're that short-handed. So we get the firemen to wash down the streets wherever we can. And they're the best ever. Otherwise we never could have caught up with the extra work thrown on us by the recent storm."

He was sorry, he said, they'd have to be a little more strict now in that matter of garden-refuse collection. You see, they could operate only two trucks instead of the regular four—because of the War. And he'd be mighty relieved, he said, if folks would try to keep down their rubbish-piles to the amount the law allows—two cubic yards. But he guessed folks would understand all right and not be vexed. He thought they'd co-operate. So did we.

—Perley Poore Sheehan.

Simplified Forms Provided For State Income Tax Returns

Simplified forms for the filing of California State income tax returns by persons whose gross incomes do not exceed $5,000 a year have been authorized and are now being printed. They will be available next week, but application must be made for them this year at the office of the State Franchise Tax Commissioner. The regular forms have already been mailed out, but the new simplified form, similar to that on which persons whose gross income does not exceed $3,000 may make their Federal income tax return, may be had from the commissioner's office in Sacramento by mail or at any of the branch offices.

THE BEST WAY TO AIR A ROOM

IN the current wartime effort to conserve the supply of gas fuel to meet the tremendous demands of the defense industry, gas heat in the home is valuable and should not be wasted by the national habit of enjoying fresh air via a partially open window with full heat on. And yet, there is no need to live in a stuffy atmosphere. If your home uses gas for heating, it is possible to air a room without waste of fuel by observing a few common sense precautions.

When a window must be opened for purposes of airing a room, the door to that room always should be closed, otherwise the cold air rushing in will chill the rest of the house. With warm air systems, the register should be closed to prevent the cold air from rushing through the register to the furnace and chilling the air circulation to the other rooms thus wasting fuel.

With radiator heat the radiator valves should be closed during the time the room is being aired.

Dickens "In Person" To Greet Patrons At Entertainment

Within the city, the lights may be dimmed, but brightness and life will be found within the Woman's clubhouses Saturday evening, Feb. 20, at 8 p.m. when Clement May, now known to Sierra Madreans as an entertainer of charm and personality, will present an entirely new program, containing many gems from his vast repertoire, including his famous characters from the master works of Charles Dickens.

"All patrons on Saturday evening will be conducted to their seats by two charming characters from Dickens, namely Dolly Varden and Lucy Mannett, while Mr. Dickens 'in person' will receive you on arrival." Mr. May announced yesterday.

Los Angeles Family To Build Home Here

Mr. and Mrs. A. Scheuner, formerly of Los Angeles, have purchased property at 274 and 276 West Highland ave., and will start construction on a new home as soon as materials are available. Mr. and Mrs. Scheuner recently returned from Australia and New Zealand where they had lived for a year.

Irene

When Irene got home from the airplane factory she was good and tired. This was the hour, after work and before dinner, that she always looked forward to. Her private name for it was "My sissy hour." Into it, these days, she packed all the lazy, luxurious little things she loved—things that used to take up a lot more than an hour of her peace-time days.

She sat down at the little desk in her room. You could tell quite a lot about Irene from that desk. The water-glass filled with the small bouquet of flowers she sometimes bought on the way home. The paper-weight of pink marble. The thin, crackly blue air-mail stationery. And the big, framed photograph of a young man in a corporal's uniform—as good-looking a man as Irene was pretty. On the blotter pad lay the telegram that had come that morning just as she was leaving for work.

With those long, well-shaped fingers she reached for a sheet of paper. She nibbled the end of her pen for a bit, and then she wrinkled up her nose at the picture of the soldier and began to write, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau," but the corporal's name was Jackson and she called him Pete. Her round handwriting spread across the page. "My boy friend is with the A.E.F. in Ireland. He has cabled me fifty dollars with which to buy a diamond ring. I've been thinking it over and decided to buy a War Bond to help Uncle Sam instead. This may help to bring my boy friend home sooner, and then he can help me select my ring."

Slowly she began to sign her name, "Irene —"

(Letter from an actual communication in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Let's all sacrifice as Irene has done. Bring final victory closer with the money you put into War Bonds. Make certain your family budget tops 10 percent by New Year's.

Women Will Hear Noted Violinist

Exceptional Musical Program Arranged For Open House At Their Club

The Sierra Madre Woman's Club extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend its open house meeting to be held at the clubhouse, Wednesday, Feb. 24 at 2 p.m.

Miss Ruth West, music chairman, will be in charge of the program and will present Max Donner, a violinist of exceptional talent, who is also a composer, conductor and teacher. A native of New York, he received his training in both America and Europe. He attended the Royal conservatories of Berlin and Brussels for nine years, completing his studies with high honors as a pupil of Ysaye, Cesar Thompson and Pfitzner. He has appeared as a soloist with prominent European and American symphony organizations, and has played with the New York and Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras.

Mr. Donner will be accompanied by Mrs. Catherine McBurney Kirk. Miss West is also presenting, and will accompany Miss Evelyn Caldwell, lyric soprano, of Alhambra. Tea will be served following the program. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. C. H. Sandage and Mrs. Shelby Cowart.

Andy Cump says—

"OH, MIN!"—We're going to buy more War Bonds. Like everybody else we're going to "top that 10%."

FIRE FLAMES

Well—there was coffee to drink at our meeting Friday. That should be "nuff said." 'Twas as expected—that the missing supply would show up soon.

The bowling team reported it is now in second place in the league. Only excuse of the boys for not being first is that Fred Krinke has had a sore arm for two or three weeks from lifting too many pens and pencils. They promise to do their utmost to lead the league before the series is over.

Having served the customary six months probationary period to the satisfaction of the voting members, Raymond Penn was duly elected as an active fireman last Friday and is now eligible to say his piece at our meetings. Men of the fire department are picked because of the interest they display. They must prove that they are always alert to prevent fires. When they offer suggestions to prevent fire, there is no reason to resent them. They feel that it is a duty.

Accompanying a letter just received by his mother, Mrs. Helen Lovejoy of West Grand View from Sgt. Russell Lovejoy in the New Guinea area, was a note from his superior officer announcing that "Russ" has named his ship the "Mary Lou", after his sister, and has decorated it with a shamrock. The letter announced that he has had an eye injury but is otherwise well and enjoying life. Also accompanying was the monthly remittance of $50 from his sergeant's pay, with instructions to buy his monthly $50 war bond.

War Activities Of Citizens Reduces Library Patrons

Gasoline and tire rationing which have had the effect of keeping people at home is boosting book borrowing in the libraries of many southern California communities, but it has had the reverse effect here. There has been a marked falling off recently in the number of borrowers at the Sierra Madre Public Library due to the activities of local residents in civilian defense and the fact that there are many more employed people here than ever before, hundreds having accepted positions in defense plants and finding themselves without much idle time on their hands.

The war has also had a marked effect upon the character of reading matter sought by the library's patrons, according to Miss Lulu Moore, the librarian. Fiction books are much less in demand and people generally are turning to volumes on the war, the conquered countries, lands and sea areas in which the present day battle lines are drawn, and post-war problems.

Opening of the library for two hours on Saturday mornings seems to be a popular move. The number of patrons taking advantage of the two-hour period has increased steadily in the four weeks it has been in effect. The library's hours are now from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. daily Monday through Saturday and in the evenings from 7 until 9 o'clock; Saturday morning from 10 until 12

EYE WITNESS TELLS BLOOD DONORS OF NEW MIRACLES THEY'RE RESPONSIBLE FOR

Written in the jungles of New Guinea, Dr. John L. Woehler chairman of the blood donors committee of the local Red Cross chapter, has just received an eye witness account of the effectiveness of blood plasma in saving lives of American soldiers in the Southwest Pacific. It was written by George Moorad who is with the advanced Allied forces in New Guinea as "a memo to Americans," and reads in part as follows:

Some months ago you and some friends each donated a pint of blood to the American Red Cross. They gave you a little bronze honor button then perhaps you forgot all about it. Or perhaps you thought it was just another drill for domestic morale. Well, today your blood is fighting—it's on the frontline in tropical New Guinea. Thousands of weary miles from the comfortable donor center in Los Angeles, your blood is saving uncounted lives of Allied fighting men.

I've just followed your donated blood to the end of the trail, up through black sago swamps where your sons and their Aussie comrades are slowly but surely pushing the Japs back whence they came. And all along that trail, by sea from America, by plane from Australia, by native carrier up the jungle paths, and there's heartfelt gratitude for this medical wonder that's easing the terrible pain of war.

Major Simon Warmenhover, formerly of St. Mary's Hospital, Grand Rapids, now director of the American Medical Services here, lists plasma and sulfa drugs as the most important factors revolutionizing wartime surgery. "Our medical men of 1917 and 1918 simply couldn't believe what we are doing in this remote jungle," said Warmenhover. "Plasma is packed in tin cans just like bully beef. It can be transported anywhere in any climate. It is being used at first aid stations within enemy rifle range. Ten minutes after a man is wounded we give him blood plasma and save his life."

All along the line, at first aid stations and in portable jungle hospitals, I saw blood plasma working. Doctors just slice open the tin can which contains two bottles—one dried powdered plasma, the other distilled water. It takes only moments to mix and inject into veins through needle and rubber tubing provided in each tin unit. There is no question of delay for blood typing since plasma is universal. It is additionally useful in tropics where malaria abounds and direct transfusion from any undiscovered malaria case would greatly jeopardize a wounded man.

Near miracles are being performed through the help of plasma: Captain J. B. Campbell, whose wife is an American Red Cross worker in England, told of a lad shot in the thigh, the bullet piercing his abdomen and intestines. Captain Campbell and Major George A. Marks of Boston performed a resection and removed four feet of intestine. The patient is now in a rear base hospital and full recuperation is promised.

At another hospital, I saw bearers bring in a survivor of a Jap sneak raid. The soldier, from San Francisco, aged 20, was bayoneted seven times. Literally gallons of plasma were pumped into the boy. When I saw him again a week later he was able to sit up, smoke and eat comfortably.

Captain Sidney H. Shapiro, New York, who operates a collecting station on the front line, told me plasma also was being used as food for abdominal cases unable to be fed otherwise.

Play safe WHEN YOU FLY YOUR KITE!

This year there is an important new reason why every kite-flyer must follow the safety rules for flying kites: Power lines are vital to America's war production because they carry essential electricity to war factories...and carelessly handled kites can cause damage to power lines. Be sure to observe the following rules:

1. Fly your kite in an open field, away from power lines.
2. Never use wire, tinsel or metallic string.
3. Be sure the cord is perfectly dry.
4. If your kite catches in a power line, let go. Don't pull! Phone the company owning the line and a lineman will come to get your kite for you.
